Market developments

Covid-19 updates continued to dominate news flow as the number of cases globally topped 15 million, with nearly half of those in the US, Brazil and India (which also have around 40% of the fatalities). With cases in the US spiking again, some states had to pause their planned re-openings or introduce local lockdowns, which became a trend mirrored in parts of Europe as well, such as the UK and Spain. However, despite fears of a second wave, the strong technical picture kept markets on a firm footing and periods of weakness were very short-lived.

Globally governments kept up their accommodative stances, with many increasing stimulus and support. In the US, the government looked for approval from congress for a further $1tr of stimulus, largely aimed at supporting individuals, while in the EU, leaders finally approved the €750bn EU recovery fund, which consisted of €390bn of grants and €360bn of low interest loans for member states. In the UK, Rishi Sunak, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, issued a summer statement announcing several measures to support businesses and individuals.

The biggest event in July for most market participants was the start of the Q2 earnings season, with US banks leading the way. Bellwether JP Morgan was first out and while Q2 profits were down due to loan loss provisions, the drop was smaller than analyst estimates and the bank set a record for trading activity with its FICC revenues up 120% year-on-year (YoY), starting a trend for blockbuster trading results. In the post-earnings call, CEO Jamie Dimon painted a slightly bearish picture, stating that there is still much uncertainty ahead regarding the US recovery, though most analysts focused on the positive performance and US banks in general exceeded analyst expectations. European banks reported later in the month, with fairly similar results; provisions were mostly increased, but capital ratios and buffer levels also grew and most banks look resilient in the face of what is sure to be rising NPLs and defaults going forward. The big US tech companies also reported late in July, beating consensus estimates and taking the top six stocks in the Nasdaq index to a valuation of around $6.9tr after the earnings releases.

Economic data was mixed, with China's Q2 GDP surprising to the upside at +3.2% YoY vs 2.4% expected, while some data out of the US disappointed. For example, US Q2 GDP was down 32.9% on an annualized basis, and while this was well-flagged and marginally better than expectations, it still had a negative impact on sentiment. Germany's Q2 GDP print had a similar impact, down 10.1% vs. expectations of -9.0%.

Elsewhere, tensions between China and the US continued to increase with the closure of consulates and threats of sanctions on officials and entities from both sides. On the Brexit front, the UK and the EU had a series of meetings to try to negotiate a trade deal, but to no avail, and it seemed there were still significant gaps between the two sides.

Portfolio review

As expected, July saw a slowdown from the huge issuance numbers from the previous few months, though the early weeks of the month were still very active with new deals. The portfolio managers continued to put cash to work, reducing the Fund's liquidity (government bonds and cash) by around 2% to 16%, but maintained their selective approach, especially with pricing tightening significantly from initial guidance in many cases as demand continued to outweigh supply. The team were prudent with credit selection, focusing on high quality names in non-cyclical industries with good earnings visibility. The allocation to government bonds remained exclusively in the two-year US Treasury, to ensure good liquidity and flexibility in the Fund.

For institutional investors only/not for public viewing or distribution

July was generally another firm month for risk assets, with demand remaining robust and the US leading the charge; the S&P 500 was up 5.5% for the month while the tech-heavy Nasdaq was up 7.4%. Astonishingly, the collective market capitalization of the Nasdaq index reached a value greater than the total GDP of the EU. In Europe, price action was slightly more muted with the Euro Stoxx 50 down 1.85% and the iTraxx Xover index tightening by 5bp.

There was a similar story in credit, with the US High Yield index significantly outperformed finishing July at +4.78%. Other HY indices lagged this move but still up on the month at +1.78% and +1.71% for Euro and GBP HY, respectively. EM also outperformed posting a return of +2.72% and the Coco index finishing +1.63%. Despite the strong performance in risk assets, weak fundamentals also gave support to government bonds, with the US again leading the move with treasuries returning +1.21%, while European governments and UK gilts returned +1.07% and +0.42%, respectively.

Performance analysis

The Fund returned +1.80% (Class G) for the month. Top contributors were HY US +0.44%, Insurance +0.36%, there were no detractors over the month.

Outlook

Q2 earnings will be in full swing in August and the portfolio managers will keep a close eye on these, as well as any future guidance from companies. Similarly, any economic data releases will be important, especially with some economies having to pause their lockdown easing; the direction of new Covid-19 cases will be closely watched as fears of a second spike continue to grow.

Any developments in the US presidential race could also be important for sentiment. The incumbent, Donald Trump, recently used his Twitter account to suggest delaying the election given current circumstances, and the Democrat candidate, Joe Biden, is set to pick his running mate.

The team expect the market to be relatively subdued in August at the peak of the summer holidays and for primary markets to be slow relative to recent months. Their base case is for spreads to grind tighter over the month, supported by the healthy cash balances on the sidelines and lower levels of new issuance. The portfolio managers will remain selective in credit and maintain a significant liquidity buffer to allow for maximum flexibility.
